Subject: emergency cabinet meeting

Good Morning Larry,
Michael would like us to set up an emergency OHS cabinet meeting for this week or early next week regarding food and fuel. Michael has also requested that Jim Hunt participate in this meeting.

Please let me know how I can be helpful in setting this up.

Thanks,
Eliza

Firefighter accused of attacking stepdaughter

By Jeannie M. Nuss, Globe Correspondent | October 16, 2008

Police say a Boston firefighter kicked his stepdaughter and then tried to prevent them from arresting him earlier this week.

Eugene Britto Fortes, 46, of Roxbury, was arrested Tuesday night and charged yesterday in Roxbury District Court with assault and battery with a dangerous weapon and disorderly conduct, a spokesman for Suffolk District Attorney Daniel F. Conley said. Fortes was released on personal recognizance and is scheduled to return to court on Dec. 4, said spokesman Jake Wark.

Fortes, a firefighter for 12 years, will remain on duty and keep the department updated of the status of his case, Fire Department spokesman Steve MacDonald said.

Fortes's stepdaughter told police that he had told her to move out of his Roxbury apartment after an argument on Friday.

When she returned to the apartment on Robey Street on Tuesday to retrieve her belongings, Fortes argued with her for checking the mail, according to the police report.

Fortes left the apartment and sat on the steps on the front porch, police said. When the stepdaughter tried to leave, Fortes allegedly blocked her path before she could squeeze past.

He then chased her up the street and kicked her right thigh before heading back to the apartment, police said. Police did not release the name or age of the stepdaughter.

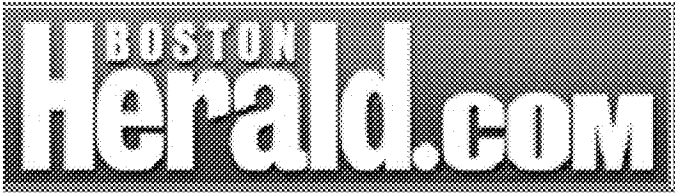

When officers arrived and rang the door bell, Fortes and his wife opened and closed the door, police said. Fortes then allegedly yelled, "Summons me to court and I'll show up."

More police officers arrived, and after 15 minutes of negotiating, the woman allowed them in the apartment, police said.

The police said Fortes then allegedly told the officers, "I admit, I was upset. I chased her, and I kicked her." He was then arrested.

Fortes did not return a message yesterday seeking comment.

City group OKs building demolition

By Greg Turner | Thursday, October 16, 2008

Suffolk University's plan to put up a new academic building on Beacon Hill has cleared a key hurdle.

The Boston Landmarks Commission approved the demolition of the 76-year-old brick building at 20 Somerset St. that used to house the headquarters of the Metropolitan District Commission.

The unanimous vote Tuesday night was a big win for Suffolk's proposed $68 million, 10-story building that would house the university's art school and classrooms.

The commission waived a 90-day demolition-delay period after Suffolk agreed to conditions including paying tribute to the now-defunct MDC inside the new building and outside at the adjacent Roemer Plaza.

"The Landmarks Commission made sure that we commemorate the MDC in a proper way, but at the same time paved the way for what is going to be an exciting building for the neighborhood and, most importantly, our students," said John Nucci, Suffolk's vice president for external affairs.

But a wrecking crew is not about to hit the abandoned MDC building.

The project still needs backing from the Massachusetts Historical Commission. And the Boston Redevelopment Authority is still reviewing the design of the proposed academic building.

But Suffolk has come a long way from the high-rise dormitory it pitched two years ago. Strong opposition from Beacon Hill neighbors forced the school to scrap that plan.

Town-gown relations improved further in June when the city supported Suffolk's 10-year master plan for expansion. The school agreed to refrain from growing into most of Beacon Hill in exchange for support on certain projects from the powerful Beacon Hill Civic Association.

Suffolk will pay the state $10 million for the former MDC property, and the school has targeted fall 2011 for the opening of its new building.

The BRA's public hearing process should stretch into January, Nucci said. He said it was unclear how long the state review will take.

CondoDomain.com Opens Atlanta & Charlotte Markets

October 16, 2008

Greetings!

Press Release: CondoDomain.com Opens Atlanta & Charlotte Markets

CondoDomain.com is pleased to announce the expansion of their web-based real estate business model in the Atlanta, Georgia and Charlotte, North Carolina marketplaces.

With the launch of these two markets, CondoDomain.com is now operating in four cities with plans to launch 4 more on the immediate horizon.

The business model, which has yielded more than $300,000 in cash rebates back to their Boston-based clients this year, has been nothing short of an instant success and the company plans to aggressively rollout additional markets before year-end.

"Growing a business like CondoDomain.com, that offers superior service while saving individuals thousands in commissions on their new home purchase, is no easy task, especially in these market conditions. However, the model is much more recognized and appreciated in times like this." Noted, Anthony Longo, Founder & Broker of the firm.

Leading the new markets will be two veteran real estate brokers: Ursula Henry in Atlanta, GA and Terry McDonald in Charlotte, NC.

Both Henry and McDonald will now be in charge of all of the real estate operations in their prospective cities. Throughout the years, they have proven their commitment and passion in the Atlanta and Charlotte real estate markets and will now strive to become a valuable resource and advocate for condo buyers in this new Internet home buying era.

Visit www.CondoDomain.com to search for Atlanta condos or Charlotte condos.

Dear FiLM Club Member,

SAVING MARRIAGE opens Friday at Kendall Square. Three years in the making, this documentary is on the scene as the state of Massachusetts grapples with a simple question: Should gay and lesbian couples have the right to marry?

Editor/contributor Paula Gauthier will be hosting Q&As after the following showtimes of SAVING MARRIAGE this weekend at Kendall Square:

Friday 7:30 pm

A THOUSAND YEARS OF GOOD PRAYERS opens at Kendall Square Friday. Joshua Land of Time Out New York writes: "Both culturally specific and achingly universal, Wayne Wang's A Thousand Years of Good Prayers contemplates the ravages of time and distance -- physical, emotional and cultural -- on a parent-child relationship." (full review)

HAPPY-GO-LUCKY opens this Friday at Kendall Square. The film chronicles the daily comings and goings of 30-year-old Poppy, a primary school teacher in London whose positive, easy-going outlook epitomizes the title.

MORNING LIGHT opens at Kendall Square on Friday. This exciting true-life documentary tells the inspiring story of a group of young men and women as they race a high-performance 52-foot sloop in the TRANSPAC, the most revered of open-ocean sailing competitions.

WHAT JUST HAPPENED? opens Friday at Kendall Square. Academy Award-winning director Barry Levinson directs this winningly sharp comedy about two nail-biting, back-stabbing, roller-coaster weeks in the world of a middle-aged Hollywood producer -- as he tries to juggle an actual life with an outrageous series of crises in his day job. The all-star cast includes Robert De Niro, Bruce Willis, Catherine Keener, John Turturro, Sean Penn, Kristin Stewart, Stanley Tucci, and Robin Wright Penn.

W. opens at Embassy on Friday. Director Oliver Stone brings the life of our 43rd President to the big screen, taking viewers through Bush's eventful life and presidency.

See you at the movies!

Public Safety- Asked if people felt safe in neighborhood. 6 out of 7 said yes.
Mentioned increase in Street Workers.

Education: Touched on fuel costs and unnecessary transportation policy as an impediment to closing the achievement gap by keeping resources out of classroom.

Criticized the assignment process and staggered start schedule. Mentioned an SAT prep program that was extremely difficult in being implemented.

Also cited waste in administration at Court Street though did not mention specifics. Of the 7 people in attendance, none had children in school although there was a parent whose children were older and out of school.

All discussion on budget pertained to the operating budget. No mention of capital budget or process.

Mentioned problems with tracking constituent service requests particularly Public Works. Touted City Stat as a management tool that administration is reluctant to use.

Litter and baskets were mentioned as problems. Mentioned that he is pushing year round street cleaning.

Also talked about moving city hall. All 7 people attending opposed the idea with the accessibility being the main issue.

STATEMENT FROM MAYOR MENINO ON GOVERNOR PATRICK'S FISCAL ACTION PLAN

The Governor, constitutional officers and the other branches of state government today made some very difficult but necessary cuts to stabilize the State's resources. My staff will continue to work throughout the evening to determine the details of these reductions and how they will impact the people of Boston.

This crisis has pushed the state to examine practices that are outdated and costly. Cities and towns need the same flexibility and the same rights to make prudent management decisions in difficult times.

Dear Colleague:

The global economic turmoil has hit home here in Massachusetts. As a result, today I am announcing over $1.4 billion in spending cuts, cost controls, and other budget solutions to bring our operating budget in line with the revised consensus revenue estimate for fiscal year 2009. A full list and description of the measures we will take is available here.

These cuts will affect state services and state workers. If you have questions about how these measures will specifically affect you or your agency, please speak with your immediate supervisor. While the impact on state workers will vary from agency to agency, legislative leaders and I have agreed that we will not implement a formal early retirement program.

I have not taken these decisions lightly. I know that behind every cut is a family, a worker, an important service or a worthy idea. Throughout this process I have attempted to balance our fiscal realities with the very real human impact behind each decision. As much as possible, we have tried to preserve funding and assistance for the people who lean on their government more in times like these.

We are all in uncharted fiscal waters. Come what may, we are in it together. My confidence in the Commonwealth's future and her people is unshaken. I will do whatever I can – working with you and through public employee unions – to meet our challenges honestly, equitably and with respect for your service to the Commonwealth.

Thank you for your continued dedication to the people of Massachusetts.

Sincerely,

Governor Deval L. Patrick

Haley, Dykema clash over spending and full-time legislating

The race to replace Republican state Rep. Paul Loscocco in Middlesex County's 8th District has heated up recently, as the two candidates, Democrat Carolyn Dykema and Republican Dan Haley, have clashed over their differing approaches to government spending and whether they would work fulltime as a state representative if elected.

Haley, of Holliston, told PolitickerMA.com Wednesday that government spending has gotten out of control because the state is ruled overwhelmingly by Democrats.

"We have such an imbalance in state government that what we get is detached, arrogant and unaccountable backroom governing," Haley said. "We need more people on Beacon Hill saying 'look at how they are spending, look at their lack of restraint.'"

Haley said that Dykema's view of spending is "vastly overrepresented on Beacon Hill" and that "when I was talking about fiscal responsibility, she said if you spend all of your time watching the dollars and counting expenditures you're going to miss opportunities."

Haley also said that he is so fed up with spending that he is going to vote for Question 1, the ballot measure that would eliminate the state income tax. He added, however, that he believes that the legislature would ignore the measure and make sure the income tax remains intact if Question 1 succeeds.

Dykema, also of Holliston, refuted Haley's claims and said that his support of Question 1, symbolic or not, shows that he is out of touch with how significantly the measure would affect local aid.

"I've worked in local government and it would be devastating," Dykema said. "To suggest that repealing the income tax is a responsible position given the insecurity of the global and national economy is a very big disservice."

An Update from Governor Deval Patrick

From Governor Patrick

Dear Colleague:

The global economic turmoil has hit home here in Massachusetts. As a result, today I am announcing over $1.4 billion in spending cuts, cost controls, and other budget solutions to bring our operating budget in line with the revised consensus revenue estimate for fiscal year 2009. A full list and description of the measures we will take is available here.

These cuts will affect state services and state workers. If you have questions about how these measures will specifically affect you or your agency, please speak with your immediate supervisor. While the impact on state workers will vary from agency to agency, legislative leaders and I have agreed that we will not implement a formal early retirement program.

I have not taken these decisions lightly. I know that behind every cut is a family, a worker, an important service or a worthy idea. Throughout this process I have attempted to balance our fiscal realities with the very real human impact behind each decision. As much as possible, we have tried to preserve funding and assistance for the people who lean on their government more in times like these.

We are all in uncharted fiscal waters. Come what may, we are in it together. My confidence in the Commonwealth's future and her people is unshaken. I will do whatever I can – working with you and through public employee unions – to meet our challenges honestly, equitably and with respect for your service to the Commonwealth.

Thank you for your continued dedication to the people of Massachusetts.

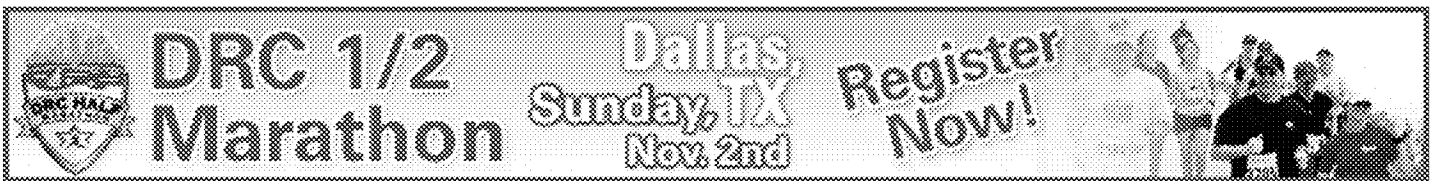

Sincerely,

Governor Deval L. Patrick

Michael,

Thank you for convening yesterday's meeting -- I think we made excellent progress. I will keep you in the loop as we move the transition forward.

I wanted to make you aware of an event that is in the draft stage but stands a good chance of occurring. Ed DeMore and I are working with folks at the Federal Reserve Bank to convene two seminars about the financial crisis sometime in early December. The first would be at the FRB and we would like to have the second at Faneuil Hall and have it be open to the public. Our goal is to have a non-partisan, fact-based analysis and discussion of the crisis. We are talking with Larry Summers, Marsh Carter and Barney Frank as possible presenters. The event will be moderated by Crocker Snow, a former Boston Globe reporter and editor and publisher of the World Paper. We would like to invite the Mayor to welcome the audience and give remarks. Can you give me your thoughts on whether TMM would be interested and whether we could use Faneuil Hall?

I've attached a draft document that provides more details about the event. Here is the URL for another series of seminars that we are producing around international issues www.BHISymposia.org.

Sincerely,

Steve

It is the state agency that oversees (for the most part) roadways and parkland in the state. It stands for the Department of Conservation and Recreation. The project is question here though is an MWRA (Massachusetts Water Resource Authority) project that is on a DCR road. Have Tom Tinlin refer this to his appropriate counterpart in the state.

MESSAGE:I have emailed the mayor's office regarding the intersection on Morrissey Blvd, after the Boston Globe where the entrance to UMass Boston is. Heading toward the gas tanks, on the Boston Globe side at this set of lights, the far right lane has a green light the majority of the time which becomes congested to say the least. All lanes are clearly marked and a cobble stone strip indicates the flow of traffic being 3 lanes left and 1 lane straight. My previous email was saying how dangerous drivers have become by-passing the line of cars waiting to proceed through this 1 lane and nearly crashing to squeeze themselves through the narrow passage, official vehicles as well. I was replied to within a few days and said this matter will be looked into. LOOKED INTO MEANT SETTING UP CONSTRUCTION BARRELS CREATING 2 LANES. HOW IS THIS THE CORRECT WAY TO DEAL WITH THESE AGGRESSIVE MOTORISTS? It was appalling to drive down Morrissey, after addressing this issue, and see that the solution was to have two lanes race down an extremely busy boulevard and cram into 1 lane. If you donnot know the lane I am speaking of look it up on Google street. Please email me with your reasoning, and your solution to this.

Michael,

I spoke with you a year ago and then recently regarding the DEFECTIVE CEMENT poured (in West Roxbury) by DND for my elderly, invalid Dad.

I have been arguing with EVERYONE for three years. Promises were made and then just simply ignored. Calls were never returned.

The matter has been RESOLVED.

I believe, however, that it was you who interceded on our behalf, and in the interest of doing the right thing, which caused DND to finally, actually settle the matter and correct the problem.

I DID NOT WANT TO MISS THE OPPORTUNITY TO THANK YOU, SO VERY MUCH, FOR INTERCEDING & BRINGING THE OUTSTANDING PROBLEM TO FAIR RESOLUTION.

I was entertaining thoughts of inviting the entire City Hall onto the Titanic and waving "Bon Voyage!". I do not drink, but they had me looking longingly at Blanchards as I passed by. I was an inch away from tranquilizers, which I have never before taken.

Simply, thank you.

Michael,

Good morning, I hope all is well.

I am e-mailing a high quality pdf of a recent article regarding our pilot CERT training that appeared in the Charlestown Patriot-Bridge on 9/25/08.

Could you post this to the www.cityofboston.gov/cert website? Ideally the link will read □Charlestown pilot CERT leads the way in neighborhood disaster preparedness□.

Thanks, and let me know if you have any questions.

Michael,

Good morning, I hope all is well.

I am e-mailing a high quality pdf of a recent article regarding our pilot CERT training that appeared in the Charlestown Patriot-Bridge on 9/25/08.

Could you post this to the www.cityofboston.gov/cert website? Ideally the link will read "Charlestown pilot CERT leads the way in neighborhood disaster preparedness".

Thanks, and let me know if you have any questions.

Subject: A Budget Message from the Governor

Dear Colleague:

The global economic turmoil has hit home here in Massachusetts. As a result, today I am announcing over $1.4 billion in spending cuts, cost controls, and other budget solutions to bring our operating budget in line with the revised consensus revenue estimate for fiscal year 2009. A full list and description of the measures we will take is available here.

These cuts will affect state services and state workers. If you have questions about how these measures will specifically affect you or your agency, please speak with your immediate supervisor. While the impact on state workers will vary from agency to agency, legislative leaders and I have agreed that we will not implement a formal early retirement program.

I have not taken these decisions lightly. I know that behind every cut is a family, a worker, an important service or a worthy idea. Throughout this process I have attempted to balance our fiscal realities with the very real human impact behind each decision. As much as possible, we have tried to preserve funding and assistance for the people who lean on their government more in times like these.

We are all in uncharted fiscal waters. Come what may, we are in it together. My confidence in the Commonwealth's future and her people is unshaken. I will do whatever I can – working with you and through public employee unions – to meet our challenges honestly, equitably and with respect for your service to the Commonwealth.

Thank you for your continued dedication to the people of Massachusetts.

Sincerely,

Subject: Jamaica Plain Centre South Redesign

Hi Frank, Vineet, Para, and Laurie

I am writing because the Mayor has ok'd the redesign of Centre and South streets in Jamaica Plain. These two streets are currently being resurfaced, covering the train tracks and making the handicap ramps compliant with ADA and AAB requirements.

I am writing because I need to know if the redesign of the street can be allocated in the Capital Budget. I am unsure if monies have already been allocated under a PW reconstruction budget line or if there is wiggle room and we can add this project in FY09 with some funding now to begin the planning process.

I do not know much about this process and the Mayor would like to announce this project in the near future if possible. If it makes sense, I would be happy to set up an internal meeting to get everyone on the same page.

Please let me know your thoughts on this, if you have information on where money can be spent and how soon, and the process from there out.

Thank you and have a great Wednesday!

SENATOR RICHARD BURR LUNCHEON

The New England Council is pleased to invite you to a Luncheon with Senator Richard Burr (R-NC) on Friday October 17, 2008 from 12:30-2:00 p.m. at the Hampshire House, 84 Beacon Street in Boston, MA. We were delighted to be able to sponsor this event while Senator Burr is visiting one of our members in Boston. While Senator Burr is not a New Englander, his committee assignments are very relevant to our members, especially in the Energy, Education and Financial Services sectors. He serves as the Ranking Member on the Retirement & Aging Subcommittee of the Senate Health, Education, Labor & Pensions Committee – his subcommittee oversees federal regulation of pension plans and retirement savings issues. He also serves on the Subcom-

the Vice-Chairman of the Council's Board of Directors.

McDonough, formerly the executive director of the Massachusetts citizen advocacy group Healthcare for All, played a significant role in the passage of Massachusetts' health reform law. He spent 13 years as a Massachusetts State Representative, serving for several years as co-chair of the Healthcare Committee. He was the chief architect of legislation providing funding for children's healthcare coverage. He was chosen by Senator Kennedy to begin working on universal healthcare legislation last spring in anticipation of next year's political changes.

Monahan, Ryan and Neal with Congressman Markey

As you know, Senator Kennedy is Chairman of the Senate Health, Education Labor and Pensions Committee. Discussions regarding healthcare reform have been central to this year's Presidential campaign and advocates of reform see significant opportunities to bring about major changes, given the new session of Congress, with a new President in the White House. With Senator Kennedy's pivotal role in leading reform efforts, this meeting presents an outstanding opportunity to learn more about that office's plans for the coming year.

The following week our Healthcare Committee will meet to review the discussion from this meeting and begin developing a collective response to any reform ideas that seem to be emerging from Kennedy's office. This process of evaluating reform ideas and providing thoughtful, measured feedback is likely to be a precursor of much of next year's committee work.

The meeting is scheduled for October 28, 2008 at 10:30 am – 12:00 p.m. at Blue Cross Blue Shield Landmark Center, 401 Park Drive in Boston.

ENERGY AND ENVIRONMENT COMMITTEE

The Council's Energy and Environment Committee will meet on October 22 from 10 am to 12:00 p.m. at WilmerHale, located at 60 State Street in Boston on the 26th Floor. The meeting will focus on climate change and alternative energy issues. Speakers include Mark Bayer, the Legislative Director for Congressman Edward Markey(D-MA) who will discuss recent developments in climate change, clean energy policy and outlook for the next congressional session, Philip Giudice, Commissioner of Massachusetts Department of Energy Resources describing the Commonwealth's progress in implementing the Green Communities Act and an update on RGGL, and Nick d'Arbeloff of the New England Clean Energy Council who will discuss their efforts in this area as well.

POST ELECTION DISCUSSION

On Wednesday November 12 2008 the Council will host a post-election analysis with political commentator Mark Shields. Mr. Shields is a nationally-known columnist and commentator with unmatched credentials as an analyst of the U.S. political system. The event runs from 8:30 a.m. – 10:00 a.m. at the Hampshire House, 84 Beacon St. in Boston.

Michael,
Great news in a time when there is lots of difficult news.
Facing History and Ourselves is excited to announce today that we have received a large federal grant to do an educational and cultural exchange between high schools in Massachusetts and Rwanda. The schools that have been chosen are TechBoston Academy and Hudson High School.
Details are attached. I can be reached at 617 515 9004.
Thanks.

No eviction at Beech Street tomorrow. I could see Flabo standing in the same spot as TMM and the Guv were last week having a field day at our expense. Sandi is going to call Woodson back herself. She told me you and her have discussed his coming to work over here. Outstanding move on the chess board. Bill

Hello Nikko,

Wanted to get in touch with you earlier to ask for your help on something, if possible: Michael Kineavy would like to have Can Share food collections at each of the 182 voter sites in Boston. Would ONS be able to help publicize this? Perhaps through neighborhood association newsletters? Also, we would need volunteers at each of the sites to help with the collection - would you be able to get the word out about this as well? Please let us know - thank you!
